

THE SCHOOLS OUR COMMUNITIES DESERVE

A conversation about the current state of Brookline schools and where we go from here

Join Brookline educators, parents, students and concerned citizens to review what's happening right now in our schools and discuss how we can promote the progressive, democratic values essential to the educational excellence of our public schools.

- How do we make sure that the voices of parents, educators and students are at the center of educational programming and policy?
- Do standardized testing and a “data centric” mindset undermine the depth and quality of our children’s actual learning?
- Why aren’t Brookline classroom aides paid a livable wage? Why aren’t educator contracts settled?
- How do we promote racial equity and economic justice, which are essential to a progressive educational community?
- How do we ensure that our schools continue to engage, inspire and create generous, critical-thinking citizens of the world?

7 to 8:30 pm Wednesday, March 15

All Saints Church | 1773 Beacon Street at Dean Road

Come early to enjoy music and light refreshments starting at 6:30 pm. Child care will be available.

Hear from Brookline educators, students and special guests New Bedford education justice activist and UMass Dartmouth professor Ricardo Rosa, Massachusetts Teachers Association President Barbara Madeloni and Brookline Parents Organization Chair Adam Weiner.

Sponsored by the Brookline Educators Union, Brookline PAX, Brookline Parents Organization (BPO), Brookline for Racial Justice and Equity (BRJE) and Citizens for Public Schools

Be a part of this dynamic discussion. Admission is free.
RSVP encouraged at tiny.cc/rsvpforum2